

Workshop:

From Initiative to association: The basics of founding an association

On 26. June 2018, the Verband binationaler Familien und Partnerschaften, iaf e.V. and AGIUA Migrationssozial- und Jugendarbeit e.V. organized the workshop “From Initiative to association: The basics of founding an association” in Chemnitz. Participants were intercultural initiatives and migrants willing to get organized in a group. Our speaker was Elsa Hennig, education consultant at djo - Deutsche Jugend in Europa Landesverband Sachsen e.V. Together, we discussed important questions: What is an association? Which advantages does it have to be employed by an association? Which other forms of organization are there? Which legal conditions should be taken into consideration? Who can help us? Our short interview with Elsa Hennig sums up what we found out during the workshop (audio for download in four languages).

Workshop:

Go public!

On 22. August 2018, the Verband binationaler Familien und Partnerschaften, iaf e.V. and Sächsische Landeszentrale für politische Bildung organized the workshop „Go public!” during the symposium “Sächsische Migrationsgesellschaft neu denken!” (Rethinking the migration society in Saxony). Our guest was Ferda Ataman, president of the media association Neue Deutsche Medienmacher e.V. and spokesperson of Neue deutsche Organisationen. We were able to find answers for crucial questions on public relations of intercultural organizations: What is good public relations (PR) work? Which channels and tools are there for PR? And which tools can an association use? Our short interview with Ferda Ataman sums up what we found out during the workshop (audio for download in four languages).

Workshop:

The new general data protection regulation (GDPR): Digitalization, obligations and a practical approach for intercultural associations

On 20. November 2018, the Verband binationaler Familien und Partnerschaften, iaf e.V. and Deutschland sicher im Netz e.V. (Projekt Digitale Nachbarschaft) organized the workshop “The new general data protection regulation: Digitalisation, obligations and a practical approach for intercultural associations” in Leipzig. Our guest was Daniel Lehmann, journalist and university teacher. Together we discussed interesting questions: What is regulated in the new GDPR? What do association have to do in order to fulfill the data protection demands of the regulation? What must be prepared to secure the rights of third parties? Which technical measures have to be applied? How should we deal with our website, newsletter and other digital tools? Our short interview with Daniel Lehmann sums up what we found out during the workshop (audio for download in four languages).
